HUNGARY UNIV. GIVES DEGREE TO DR. A. WENTZ

Dr. A. R. Wentz, president of the Gettysburg Lutheran Theological Seminary, Friday resumed his duties here after a two months' trip to Europe in which he was honored by the University of Hungary and elected first vice president of the Lutheran World Federation.

The University of Hungary presented Doctor Wentz with a degree of Doctor of Theology during the course of the assembly of the Lutheran World Federation at Lund, Sweden, Provost Janossy, of the university made the presentation.

The local educator left here June 5 and returned to the U. S. Tuesday. He was one of 40 delegates from the U. S. to the formation assembly of the permanent organization which replaces the Lutheran World Conventions held previously.

Presides at Session
Doctor Wentz was chairman of the committee which drew up the constitution for the new world organization and presided at the meeting of the assembly when the constitution was discussed and adopted. He also was named a member of the executive committee of 16 for the federation.

Members of the executive committee will meet yearly with their next meeting to be held August 15, 1948, at Amsterdam. The assembly, attended this year by 1,000 delegates from 25 countries, will meet every five years, with the next assembly possibly to be held in the United States, and perhaps at Gettysburg.

The sessions of the assembly were divided into three study sections with Doctor Wentz as chairman of the first section.

Study German Conditions

While at Sweden Doctor Wentz and Dr. R. H. Long, executive director of the National Lutheran council flew to Germany to review the spiritual needs of the churches there and to study the application being made of funds sent by the Lutheran church to that country for its rehabilitation.

There Doctor Wentz said he found "the terrible devastation caused by total war. I had not seen it before and could not appreciate from what I had seen in pictures and had heard just how terrible it is. Stuttgart, where I had previously visited on several occasions, is demolished. The fine old buildings that I recall were smashed. Even after two years the streets are still blocked by the debris. Dozens of once beautiful churches are merely gaunt bare walls.

"People Are Discouraged"

"The people are badly nourished and terribly discouraged, almost in despair. They see no way of getting enough food to live and no way of reviving their economy. I seemed to detect in some a sort of sullen anger, an appearance of beginning to believe that Hitler was no worse than this. They still feel that Hitler was a scourge and a terrible thing for Germany, yet at the same time there is a feeling of bitterness growing."

While in Germany, Doctor Wentz visited Tuebingen, where he was a student 35 years ago and found it "unscarred by the war. He visited a number of friends of his student days while there.

He traveled to Sweden and back on the Swedish-American liner, the Gripsholm.

FREESTONES, TOMATOES ON TODAY'S MART

The first freestone peaches, Golden Jubilee, appeared on the Farmers' Market here this morning, selling at 25 cents a quart box or 35 cents a quart peck, in fair supply with market attendants estimating much larger supplies within about two weeks.

Tomatoes were available at 35 cents a quart box and cherries were still available at 25 cents a quart box. Transparent apples were being sold at 25 cents a half peck and 15 cents a quart box. A half peck was 50 cents.

Egg prices had moved upward again to 65 cents a dozen from 62 cents. String beans were moving at 15 cents a quart and 25 cents a quart peck and loganberries were available at 30 cents a quart box. Squash appeared in various shapes with the rounded squash selling at 10 cents each and other sizes slightly higher. Cabbage was six cents a pound and parsley 5 cents a bunch.

Chickens sold at 60 cents a pound. Cucumbers were $1.25 to $1.50 a hundred. Red beets sold at 10 cents a bunch and potatoes were selling at 15 cents to 20 cents a quart box and 25 to 35 cents a quart peck. Butter brought 70 cents a pound and cream 35 cents a pint. Flowers were available at varying prices.

Hospital Picture In National Magazine

A picture of the new Christian H. Musselman annex of the Annie M. Warner hospital here, was published in the July issue of "Hospital Management," a news and technical journal of hospital administration.

The caption under the picture declares that the annex "was formally opened June 29," and that "the large addition was financed by the Musselman Foundation, set up by the late Christian H. Musselman, who, when he died in 1944, was president of the C. H. Musselman company, Biglerville, Pa."

EAST BERLIN BANK AWARDED $50,000 BONDS

A $50,000 bond issue authorized by the Adams county commissioners to help finance the cost of a new county jail here, was sold by the commissioners at the court house this morning to The Peoples State Bank of East Berlin at the bank's low bid of $75 premium and interest at one per cent.

On the basis of this bid, it will cost the county $51,955 for the $50,000 needed to build the jail, the commissioners said. Next low bid was that of Fauset Steele and company, Pittsburgh, who bid $270.50 premium and interest at one and one-eighth per cent, which made the cost to the county $52,013.25. Ten bidders submitted proposals.

Offer $762 Premium

The highest premium offered was $762, contained in the bid of Blair and company, New York city, but the interest rate in this bid was one and a half per cent.

Four bidders offered to take the $50,000 issue at par, with no premium. The Gettysburg National bank, The Hanover Trust company, The Biglerville National bank and the York Trust company.

Interest rates on these four bids varied, however, with the Biglerville bank asking two and one-eighth per cent. The Gettysburg National asked one and one-eighth, and the Hanover Trust and York Trust each one and a quarter per cent.

Moore, Leonard and Lynch, Pittsburgh, bid $100.158 premium and one and a quarter per cent interest; C. C. Collins and company, Inc., Philadelphia, $11.50 premium and one and one-eighth interest; N. M. Freeman and company, Philadelphia, $100.144 premium and one and one-eighth interest.

COUNTY YOUTH WILL RECEIVE TOP FFA AWARD

Horace Waybright, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Waybright, Gettysburg R. 2, will receive the American Farmer degree from the Future Farmers of America this fall.

Word that the honor will be awarded for the first time to an Adams countyman was received Friday by Elmer Schriver, agricultural education instructor at Gettysburg high school, under whom Waybright studied while a student at the high school here.

The young man, who after his graduation from high school went into partnership with his father on the farm, will be one of eight former Future Farmers of America members from Pennsylvania who will receive the highest award it is possible for the FFA to present.

Won Keystone Degree

While in high school he won the Keystone Farmer degree from the Pennsylvania FFA. He has won a $100 prize from Sears foundation for having the best swine project in the county, has won several awards for his farm accounts and was very active in FFA affairs while in school. Schriver said that Waybright's qualities of leadership and activities, as well as the excellent way in which he has conducted his farming business was responsible for his selection as American farmer.

The award will be given at the National FFA convention to be held in Kansas City the third week in October. Waybright plans to attend the session. He graduated from Gettysburg high school in 1944.

SELLS TRUCK FARM

Thomas W. Hummelbaugh sold his five and a half acre truck farm in Franklin township near Seven Stars to Lester M. Clewell of Gettysburg. Possession was given immediately. The sale was made by C. A. Heiges, Buford avenue.

COUNCIL MEETS MONDAY

A regular meeting of the Gettysburg borough council is scheduled to be held next Monday evening, August 4, in the fire engine house, at 8 o'clock.

Littlestown GIRL SCOUTS CONCLUDE WEEK AT CAMP SITE

Girl Scout Troop No. 1 has concluded a week of camping at Marsh Creek Heights. While at camp the girls participated in arts and crafts, and were given instruction in swimming by an instructor from Red Cross headquarters at Gettysburg. The Woman's Community Club treated the girls to ice cream and cake one evening. They also received other treats.

Those at camp were: Joan Collins, Mary Ellen Collins, Dorothy Jones, Patricia McCaffrey, Yvonne McCaffrey, Dorothy Shanefelter, Nancy Simpson, Shirley Storm, Josephine Weaver, and Mary Rita Redding, troop leader, and Marie Anthony and Mary Louise Kress, camp counselors.

The girls employed in the packing room of the Windsor Shoe company held a wiener roast and outing at Big Pipe creek Wednesday evening. Employees and guests present were: Violet Knight, Helen Weaver, Orpha Fortney, Edna Fortney, Hazel Baughman, Ruth Beford, Madeline Plunkert, Alta Plunkert, Helen Jacobs, Mildred Smith, Thelma Jeffries, Barbara Jeffries, Julia Bortner, Pauline Will, Helen Wisotzky, Naomi Plank, Esta Halter, Betty Hess, Mary Mikesell, Grayce Bowers, and Ronald Bowers.

Taneytown Driver Fined

An automobile which was being backed out of the alley at the David Kiefer residence of West King street, Littlestown, by Mrs. Bertha Reindollar, Littlestown, R. 2, was struck by an automobile driven by Kenneth Shelton, Taneytown, R. 1, Thursday evening. Shelton was driving toward Taneytown. Damage to the Reindollar car was estimated at $30. Chief of Police Leon H. Gage, Littlestown, who investigated, filed an information charging Shelton with driving too fast for conditions. He was given a hearing Friday evening before Justice of the Peace Howard G. Blocher, Littlestown. Shelton paid $13.50 for fine and costs.

News Collected At Random

Prospects for a 1947 potato crop are not bright, according to the July crop report of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, which places the nation's production figure at 352 million bushels compared with a national goal of 375 million bushels. Last year the country produced 475 million bushels, an excess of a hundred million bushels.

The two photographs above show the results of the tragic accident on the Emmitsburg road, early Thursday afternoon, when a 12-year old boy and a man were killed after an automobile crashed headon into a truck. The top picture shows the two vehicles with their motors crushed together. The truck's motor is above the passenger car's hood, both machines well off the center of the highway whose white lines are visible across the foreground. The white sheet, in front of the truck's first set of dual tires, covers the body of the youth who was killed. His arm was pinned under the wheels, his body extended under the chassis. The lower photograph is a close-up of the wrecked machines.

LETTERS THANK CHILDREN HERE FOR GIFT BOXES

Adams county school children who sent gift boxes through the Junior Red Cross last spring to youngsters in similar schools overseas are reaping a rich harvest in personal letters of thanks sent by the Belgian children who received the boxes. The letters, sent to the Adams County Red Cross, will be delivered when school opens this fall.

One letter not only contains the thanks of the 10-year-old girl who received the gift box, but also contains a gift to the local school students in the form of a picture of the little Flemish girl who received the gifts and a packet of stamps in case some local student is a stamp collector.

The Belgian school girl is Elza De Bievre of Blankenberge, Belgium, and the gifts she received were from (Please Turn to Page 6)

WEDDING AUGUST 10

Invitations have been issued by Mr. and Mrs. John M. Cleveland, Harrisburg road, to the wedding of their daughter, Miss Doris Faye, to Paul Richard Trussell, Steinwehr avenue, on Sunday afternoon, August 10, at 3 o'clock, in Trinity Evangelical Reformed church, Gettysburg. A reception will follow immediately after the ceremony on the lawn of the bride's home.

14 Pedigreed Boxers Puppies. (6 Orphans) Flown To Jersey Home

Promptly at 1 o'clock Friday afternoon, "on schedule," Cherrie von Konigsill, a pedigreed boxer owned by Mr. and Mrs. John Outwater of Montville, N. J., and her eight puppies and the six orphans of another boxer, left the Gettysburg airport for their homes near Morris-town.

"Mugs," mother of another litter born here July 16, while she and Sherrie were vacationing with their owners, did not go along on the return trip. She died giving birth to 11 little boxers, five of which also failed to survive. Cherrie, known familiarly as "Coke," had all of her pups but one. Her litter was born July 15.

The Outwaters had been visiting their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Wizelman, Gettysburg R. 2. Mr. Wizelman is manager of the Gettysburg airport.

Mr. Outwater drove the family car home, while Mrs. Outwater accompanied "Coke" and the 14 puppies in the plane. The trip took about an hour and a half. It would have taken about six hours by automobile, Mr. Wizelman said. They landed at Lincoln Park airport, near Montville.

The orphan puppies had to be bottle-fed, so the airplane trip was undertaken because it could be made in between the two-hour feeding periods. Edmund W. Thomas, Jr., piloted the plane, a Stinson "Flying Station Wagon."

The Outwaters had been visiting Harrisburg, Aug. 2 (P)—As hotels and resort areas reaped a record $500,000,000 harvest from the tourist and vacation trade this year, the Commonwealth made long-range plans to keep visitors coming to the Keystone State in future years.

Helping to implement Gov. James H. Duff's plans to expand Pennsylvania's tourist business, Commerce Secretary Orus J. Matthews said the state's tourist and recreational bureau is compiling new literature now to let the world know about Pennsylvania's beauty spots, including its vast forest and mountain areas.

"Once the people of the country realize it exists," Matthews commented about the state's wooded regions. "A big development will follow. There is big room there to build up the tourist business."

Former Countian On Honor List

Miss Dorothy Mae Nitchman, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin J. Nitchman, York, formerly of East Berlin, has been named on the dean's list at Susquehanna university for the second semester of the 1946-47 academic year. A former student at the East Berlin high school and a graduate of York high school in 1945, Miss Nitchman is a junior at the university's liberal arts department with a biology major and is a member of the Biemic Society.

The young woman is a niece of Charles L. Gentzler, East Berlin, who has been a grammar school teacher in Gettysburg for a number of years.

COUNTY TO GET $17,005 FROM STATE GAS TAX

Municipal subdivisions in Adams county are eligible to receive $17,005.26 as their September 1 allocation from the state motor fund.

Requisitions for the third quarterly payment of 1947 are now being prepared by the Department of Highways under whose jurisdiction the money is expended by the local governmental units.

The money is being paid to cities, boroughs and first and second-class townships as their share of the tax levied on motor vehicle gasoline consumption. Local governmental units may expend this money for street, bridge and road maintenance or construction.

In Adams county the following amounts have been allocated by the Department of Highways to the various classes of municipalities.

Boroughs, $2,436.53; second class townships, $14,568.73.

Checks to the various municipalities will be sent only after local authorities have qualified by filing a report showing receipts and expenditures of previous payments for the six-month period ending June 30, 1947.

County's Share

Amounts available to the various boroughs in Adams county are: Abbotstown, $258.99; Arendtsville, $53.64; Bendersville, $58.67; Biglerville, $46.10; East Berlin, $100.58; Fairfield, $8.38; Gettysburg, $883.42; Littlestown, $463.50; McSherrystown, $280.79; New Oxford, $258.15; York Springs, $24.31.

Second-class townships in the county are eligible for these amounts:

Berwick, $203.54; Butler, $800.81; Conewago, $214.06; Cumberland, $749.34; Franklin, $1,408.84; Freedom, $304.13; German, $407.07; Hamilton, $521.71; Hamiltonban, $575.52; Highland, $383.68; Huntingdon, $1,055.11; Latimore, $959.19; Liberty, $477.26; Menallen, $921.76; Mt. Joy, $973.23; Mt. Pleasant, $1,065.64; Oxford, $309.98; Reading, $890.07; Straban, $912.64; Tyrone, $884.70; Union, $485.45.

Jacob Appler Leases Gulf Service Station

Jacob G. "Jake" Appler has leased the Gulf Service Station, Carlisle street, according to a display advertisement appearing elsewhere in this edition. The change became effective Friday and the business will be known as Appler's Gulf Service. Additional modernization of the station is planned.

Mr. Appler, who resigned his position with the Pennsylvania Greyhound Co., had been a driver for ten years. In July, 1942, he enlisted in the navy and served three years. He spent twenty-seven months in various parts of the Pacific where he was in charge of trucking and construction equipment for a battalion of Seabees.

FILM FEATURES COLONIAL LIFE

"Colonial Williamsburg," a technical and sound movie of the famous Colonial capital of Virginia, will be shown in the second of the series of six "campfires" under the auspices of the National Park Service here, on East Cemetery hill at 8:45 o'clock Sunday night.

The film, which portrays early colonial life in Williamsburg, is a recent picture made by the Eastman Kodak company, and is characterized by those who have already seen it, as an exceptionally fine dramatization of the restored pre-revolutionary village.

The picture will show the old House of Burgesses, the colonial governor's palace and world-famous gardens, the church, old taverns, homes of many persons whose names are famous in Colonial history, as well as the powder magazine, and places of business in the old village, where old and forgotten trades were pursued.

Dr. Frederick Tilberg will give a brief introduction. The picture is about 45 minutes in length.

PARENTS CLAIM PUPILS BEING OVER-EDUCATED

Thirty patrons of the Straban township schools met with the school board at Hunterstown Friday evening in a two and a half hour session that included accusations that the school board was "attempting to overeducate the youngsters."

Most of those present complained about "stealing the children away from the parents," "forcing the youngsters to travel for hours" and expressed concern about "what will happen to our youngsters if the roads blow shut and the buses cannot get through to the schools or bring the youngsters home?" in voicing protests about the proposed "grading" of the Straban township schools and the transportation of younger students to various schools.

But before the patrons had ended their portion of the meeting a motion by Mrs. L. P. Koonen that the "school set up continue as the board has arranged, with graded schools and transportation" was passed.

"Education Crazy"

All but one of the patrons present seemed agreed to the plan to transport the seventh and eighth grades to New Oxford junior high school. The lone dissenter claimed he was opposed to taking the high school age students out of the township to high school and added that he was equally opposed to transporting the seventh and eighth grades to the junior high school. He added that high school seemed to "ruin" the youngsters' ability to work, and concluded that "we're education crazy in this state." "We had a good school system before," he stated, adding to the board, "We elected you to run our schools, not to close them."

The argument arose as a result of the school board's announced decision to close two schools this year and to transport the children in the first six grades, with the first three grades to be taught at Hunterstown and the other three grades at two other schools in the township.

Neely Taughnbaugh, in asking if the board was not attempting to "overeducate," held up Lincoln as a great example of proper education.

"There is no leadership today such as Lincoln had," he declared, adding that "Lincoln was a product of one-room schools and there were fewer great men."

Parochial Question Up

The problem of transporting children from the township who attend parochial school in Gettysburg was brought up by A. B. Martin. Board members and patrons sending children to the public schools joined in stating their desire that the parochial school youngsters could be transported in the buses but the board members added that state law prohibits transportation of any other than public school students.

Ralph W. Guise and Harmon H. Beamer, members of the board, pointed out that the problem of providing transportation for parochial children is a problem for the state.

14 ACCIDENTS, 3 FATALITIES, SHOWN IN JULY

The month of July produced a total of 14 accidents investigated by state police of the Gettysburg substation, two of which resulted in three fatalities, according to police records announced today.

This was more than the number of accidents in July, 1946, and six less than for June, 1947, but there were no fatalities in either of these months.

One motorist was killed on Route 15, north of York Springs, on July 4, and a man and a boy met death in an accident on the Emmitsburg road near the Pennsylvania-Maryland state line on July 31.

Eighteen persons were injured during July, as compared with 24 injured in June and only ten injured in July a year ago. Property damage for July was estimated at $7,540. The same month a year ago it was only $2,836. In June the property damage was $7,105.

Made Eleven Arrests

Eleven arrests were made following state police investigation of 14 accidents last month.

State police travelled 16,445 miles during July, and made 389 patrols, the records show. They made 16 criminal investigations, 14 accident investigations, and 14 miscellaneous investigations. There were nine arrests on criminal charges and 77 traffic arrests.

The state resumed its "ports of entry" on July 1, and during the month police of the local sub-station distributed 6,420 maps to tourists entering the state, at the Maryland line on the Emmitsburg road.

SLAIN BODY IS FOUND ON ROAD NEAR TEL AVIV

Jerusalem, Aug. 2 (AP)—An unidentified Jew was found slain today on a roadside near Petah Tiqva of Tel Aviv.

Authorities expressed belief he was one of two Jews reported abducted by English-speaking men in army uniforms south of Tel Aviv about two weeks ago.

Edward Curtis of the Associated Press reported from Tel Aviv that a taxicab driver told him he found the body at 10 a. m. and estimated that the Jew had been dead 12 hours. Two Arabs near the scene said, Curtis reported, that they had seen the body hurled from a passing truck a short time earlier.

Curtis said the all-Jewish metropolis of Tel Aviv was "just about back to normal today" after a night and day of violence apparently touched off by discovery north of there Thursday of two British sergeants who had been hanged by Irgun Zvai Leumi, Jewish underground group.

Beaches Closed
"It's the usual Shabbat (Saturday holiday) and the beaches are full of people who don't seem concerned or even aware of the tension in the town," Curtis said.

Five Jews were killed and 16 hurt Thursday night and 33 others wounded yesterday in Tel Aviv. Reliable sources said most of the casualties resulted from the gunfire of British troops and police angered at the killing of the sergeants—Mervyn Paice and Clifford Martin, each 20. No Britishers were reported hurt, although Pews burned two military vehicles and stoned the post office and income tax office.

Givat Shaul, Jewish settlement on Jerusalem's outskirts which has been searched repeatedly in recent months, was combed out again today. Police reported they made a large haul of firearms, ammunition, explosives and bomb manufacturing materials in one house where they arrested two men.

Residents Screened
The police resumed screening of residents of the Rehavia quarter of Jerusalem, where one Jew was killed and two arrested yesterday during an attack on the Hampshire Regimental billet. The attack caused no British casualties.

From mid-July through yesterday, 24 persons were killed and 144 wounded in Palestine. The dead included 15 police or army personnel, two Jewish activists and seven civilians. The wounded included 79 British security personnel and 65 Jewish civilians.

WARN AGAINST ATOM SEIZURE

Lake Success, Aug. 2 (AP)—United Nations atomic delegates warned today that atomic stockpiles and production facilities must be distributed among the nations to avoid tempting an aggressor to launch an atomic war.

In one of a series of papers which make up a preview of the second report of the U. N. Atomic Energy commission, a group of delegates declared that the seizure of stockpiles and production facilities, plus facilities using nuclear fuel, would be a signal that a nation was about "to embark on atomic warfare." Russia did not take part in drawing up the papers.

"It is of vital importance that production facilities, facilities utilizing nuclear fuel and stockpiles should be distributed amongst nations in such a way as to minimize the military advantage that their seizure would provide for a nation which has aggressive intentions," the delegates said.

Decrease Incentive
"A well-planned distribution could not in itself prevent atomic war but the objective should be to decrease the incentive for any one nation or group of nations to attempt to secure a military advantage by seizure."

The papers, framed by the delegates in their individual capacities and still not approved by their governments, will be tackled by the Political committee of the commission next Wednesday. The commission is working on its second report to the Security Council, which must be turned in before the U. N. assembly meets Sept. 16.

SHOT BY POLICEMAN

New Castle, Pa., Aug. 2 (AP)—John William Dawson, 47, of near Monaca, Pa., died in Jameson Memorial hospital here yesterday of a bullet wound. Police Sgt. Dent Shields said he fired at Dawson while investigating a break-in at the downtown office of the Household Finance company. The officer said he fired only after Dawson struck him with an iron bar, breaking a finger.

ROTARY PICNIC MONDAY

Members of the Gettysburg Rotary club and their ladies will attend a picnic Monday evening at 6 o'clock at Mt. Joy church, five miles south of here on the Taneytown road. ## YANKEE'S WIFE STAYS ABROAD

Philadelphia, Aug. 2 (AP)—A check with the American Express Travel Agency in Munich, Germany, has revealed the German wife of a former U. S. Army major who was scheduled to arrive here by air last Sunday never boarded the United States bound plane for which she had reservations, an American Airlines spokesman said.

Richard W. Baker, district sales manager of the airlines, said yesterday the check also showed that Mrs. Ernestine Mueller Bell, who married Major Raymond Bell after his discharge in 1945, failed to pick up the tickets assigned to her and her two children.

Baker said Mrs. Bell was notified by two letters that her reservations were ready but that she failed to claim them. The express agency also reported that it had not been able to contact her since, Baker added.

Bell left a hospital bed, where he was waiting to undergo an appendectomy, to go to the airport here to meet his German-born wife. He returned to the hospital earlier this week and underwent the operation.

SEEK NAMES OF U.S. OFFICERS AT HUGHES' FETES

Washington, Aug. 2 (AP)—The Senate War Investigating committee placed in its records today a compilation intended to show that publicity man John Meyer listed expenditures of $5,083.79 for entertainment of Elliott Roosevelt.

Washington, Aug. 2 (AP)—Senator Ferguson (R-Mich.) called on publicity man John Meyer today to name the army officers and government officials he took night clubbing in behalf of Plane Builder Howard Hughes.

This was the tack taken by a Senate investigation as it moved into the sixth day of an inquiry into $40,000,000 worth of contracts awarded to Hughes and Henry J. Kaiser.

With Meyer on the stand, Ferguson told a reporter he wants the witness to identify all of his entertainment expense accounts "with all names."

"I don't want to smear anybody, but this fellow testified that he spent this money," the Michigan Senator said, referring to previous testimony given by Meyer is closed sessions of the Senate War Investigating Committee.

Krug Denies Charge
The name of Elliott Roosevelt, son of the late President, bulked large in that testimony and Ferguson said the committee "will follow through with all angles on Elliott Roosevelt."

Meyer also listed Secretary of Interior Krug, Gov. Mon Wallgren of Washington and many high army officers as among those he entertained. Krug has denied being at some of the parties where Meyer said the cabinet member was present.

Although the entertainment angle held the spotlight today, there was a promise of further fireworks when Chairman Brewster (R-Me) of the full committee and Hughes line up across the committee table.

Hughes announced last night that he will leave Los Angeles Monday on a two-day flight here in time to appear before the committee Wednesday.

Drivers Unhurt In Head-on Collision

The drivers escaped injury Thursday afternoon in a head-on collision of two automobiles at the intersection of the Gettysburg pike and Hanover road at the Eaton Dikeman paper mill in Mt. Holly Springs.

Traveling south, W. E. Pifer, 84, of Gardners R. 1, attempted to continue straight ahead from the Gettysburg pike to ascend the mountain on Route 94, when a car operated by Marlin N. Group, 22, Idaville, traveling north on the pike, struck Pifer's car. State Police reported.

A charge of failure to yield the right of way will be preferred against Pifer, police said. Police placed the damage to Pifer's car at $100 and $150 to Group's vehicle.

BRITONS FACE SEVERE CUT IN FOOD RATIONS

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

(AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

Britain's economic crisis has reached a point of such gravity that the harassed Socialist government is preparing to inaugurate extreme remedial action forthwith.

We get a measure of the seriousness of the situation in the forecast that there will be further large-scale slashes in the country's already scanty food rations. Such a move would represent pretty close to a last-ditch stand, since John Bull's once expansive girth long ago gave way to leanness under wartime food shortages.

This and other drastic action is expected to be announced in the House of Commons next Wednesday when Prime Minister Attlee presents the program for grappling with one of the greatest problems the British government has had to face. The public knows also that the nation's armed strength is to be cut, that the general standard of living is to be scaled down and that labor will be asked to work longer hours.

Thus far the hard-hit populace has taken the revelations in stride. The Conservative Yorkshire Post, owned by former Foreign Minister Anthony Eden's family, has this to say about its friend the political enemy:

"It is high time that they (the government) took this step, though it will mean a still more austere way of life for everyone. We are eagerly waiting to see the government take bold steps to appeal to the nation's patriotism and self-respect."

All these facts, and more, have been widely advertised by authoritative sources, which would seem to indicate that the government wants as much publicity as possible. One obvious reason is that the British public must be prepared to meet the emergency. However, I think we are safe in saying the thing cuts a lot deeper, and that Prime Minister Attlee and his cabinet are exceedingly anxious to register the facts in America, to whom they are looking for further substantial

Huge Loan Dwindles

The $3,750,000,000 which the United States loaned to Britain is running out like the sand of an hour glass—far faster than anyone had dreamed would happen. These dollars—now reduced to $1,000,000,000—may be gone by autumn or a little later, and the Marshall plan for European rehabilitation won't become effective soon enough to help London meet this shortage.

British official quarters say London is asking Washington to relax further the terms of the loan agreement. England wants a change in the clause which prevents her from increasing imports from her dominions as the expense of imports from the United States. The point of this is that Britain can pay for food and other supplies from the dominions with English money (pounds sterling) whereas she must pay for purchases in America with dollars.

Work Longer Hours

Meantime the British home forces seem to be getting set for the grim work ahead. The miners have pledged themselves to jump in and work longer hours in order to increase coal production, which is the crux of the economic crisis. The general public is waiting calmly for Wednesday's official bad news and gives every indication of standing by its guns as usual in a national emergency.

And the British Press Association announces that the great conservative opposition in parliament will not offer any motion of censure against the Socialist government next week. The conservative attitude is said to be that the prime minister will be making the gravest statement since the declaration of war and the occasion will be too serious to justify harrassing the government.

Given Promotion In National Guard

Harrisburg, Aug. 2 (AP)—Promotion of Col. Benjamin C. Jones, of Tyrone, to brigadier general in the Pennsylvania National Guard, and his retirement, effective July 25, has been announced by Adj. General Frank A. Weber.

General Jones, former chief of staff of the 28th Infantry Division of the guard, requested his retirement after more than 30 years' military service, General Weber said.

He has been on inactive duty with the PNG since his separation from the U. S. army as a full colonel January 24, 1946.

Jones was division chief of staff at the time the guard was called into federal service in 1941 before America's entry into World War Two and has been a commissioned officer in the National Guard for 20 years.

CANAL PLANNER WILL QUIT JOB

Pittsburgh, Aug. 2 (AP)—Col. Walter E. Lorence, Pittsburgh district army engineer, who is one of the leading proponents of a proposed Ohio River-Lake Erie canal, is under orders to report to China for duty but says he will retire rather than accept them.

Lorence said yesterday that he believes duty in China would jeopardize his health, adding that a physician told him he is allergic to atabrine and inoculations against tropical diseases. He served in China during World War II and was hospitalized for two months.

"I can't see why I should put my health in jeopardy again," Lorence commented.

His transfer is effective September 1, only 15 days before he said he is scheduled to submit plans for the proposed canal to Washington. He declined to comment when asked if there was any connection between the two dates, but added: "When the canal plans appear for the hearing (before the board of engineers for rivers and harbors in Washington) the people who worked on them won't be around to give their side of the story."

Lorence said a majority of the opposition to the proposed canal comes from railroad interests. He added there was considerable argument to the economic justification of the canal project which he said he believes is "quite feasible."

The largest single occupation group in America outside of farming is truck drivers—there are 4,750,000 of them.

CUBS PUT END TO STREAK OF FLATBUSH BUMS

By JACK HAND

(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Brooklyn's 13-game win spree is the latest casualty of baseball's "heartbreak week" which also saw the end of Cincinnati Ewell Blackwell's 16-game string and Pittsburgh Frank Gustine's 21-game hitting streak.

Add to these disappointments the collapse of the Boston Red Sox who went into a four-game losing tailspin after seven straight victories and the end on Monday of the New York Giants' consecutive game home run streak at 15.

Although the St. Louis Cardinals pulled out of their downward plunge by thumping the Phillies last night, 6-1, it might very well be that the Red Birds' pennant hopes also died during the week in three straight defeats at the hands of the Dodgers. Chicago ended the Brooks' long success story since 1924 with a 10-8 triumph engineered by catcher Clyde McCullough's two-run homer in the ninth inning.

Joe Hatten, an old cub-tamer from way back with eight consecutive wins over Chicago to his credit in a two-year span, was rested and ready to hang up the Dodgers' 14th triumph. But he was not around at the finish when Hugh Casey threw the home run ball to McCullough to end a stormy afternoon.

Hatten Knocked Out

The Cubs knocked out Hatten in the sixth and finally tied the score in the seventh inning of a free-hitting contest.

Both New York and St. Louis won, clipping the Dodgers' lead to nine games, with the Giants holding a one percentage point edge on the Cards for second place.

Dave Koslo was in superb form as he left-handed the Giants to a 2-1 edge over Pittsburgh, striking out Hank Greenberg three times. In fact, Koslo, enroute to his 12th success, whiffed Ralph Kiner, Greenberg and Wally Westlake in succession in the second and ninth.

Murray Dickson and Whitey Kuroski teamed up on the Phils to assure St. Louis of that 6-1 edge. Dickson allowed only five hits and singled home the winning run in the fifth. Kuroski homered off schoolboy Rowe in the second and after he was dumped into the dirt by an inside pitch in the eighth, blasted Rowe's second delivery into the left field seats with Erv Dusak and Chuck Diering on base.

Yanks Defeated

Boston lost ground in the race, splitting two with Cincinnati. Johnny Sain hurled the Braves to a 4-2 edge in the opener with the help of Bob Elliott's two-run homer in the first inning. Another homer by Elliott with a man on failed to decide the finale which went to Cincy in 12 innings, 3-2, on a single by Clyde Volmer, an error by Frank McCormick and Bobby Adams' game-winning single.

In the American league, after the New York Yankees had opened the door by bowing to Cleveland in a day game, 4-3, the Detroit Tigers knocked off the Boston Red Sox in a night game, 3-1, leaving the Yanks 12 games ahead.

One bad inning, the eighth, when St. Louis scored twice, ruined Philadelphia's Dick Fowler, who struck out eight men but bowed to the Browns' Bob Munier, 4-1. Vern Stephens' single to left was the payoff blow, driving home Johnny Bernardino and Paul Lehner.

Washington did some streak-smashing of its own, scoring its first home win of the year over Chicago, 8-1, behind the seven-hit pitching of Early Wynn, who registered his 12th victory. Mark Christman led the Senators' 12-hit attack on Joe Haynes and Bob Gillespie with a double and two singles.

Leaders Improve League Positions

(By The Associated Press)

The first-place Vandergrift Pioneers improved their Middle Atlantic league position last night, edging the third-place Oil City Refiners 10-8 while the second place Erie Sailors were dropping a 6-5 decision to Uniontown.

As matters stand now the Pioneers, who have won four in a row, have a 3½ game edge over the Sailors and are five full games ahead of Oil City. Niagara Falls, which, along with Johnstown, was not scheduled last night, holds down the fourth spot. The New York state nine is six games behind Vandergrift.

The Youngstown Colts, in fifth place and 8½ games off the pace, had little trouble defeating Butler 8-4 last night.

Butler is in sixth position, 12½ games behind Vandergrift. Next in line, 16 games behind, is Uniontown. The Barons once more exchanged places with Johnstown last night with the idle Johnnies returning to the cellar, 16½ games out of first place.

(By The Associated Press)

Batting, Clyde McCullough, Cubs—Blasted Dodgers' 13-game win streak with two-run home run ninth inning off Hugh Casey for 10-8 victory.

Pitching, Freddie Hutchinson, Tigers—Limited Boston to six hits and drove in all Detroit scores with six-inning triple for 3-1 decision.

Segura And Seixas Reach Semi-Final

Southampton, N. Y., Aug. 2 (AP)—Fifth seeded Francisco "Pancho" Segura of Ecuador and unseeded Victor Seixas of the University of North Carolina will battle in a feature semi-final today for the right to meet Seymour Greenberg in the Sunday men's singles final of the Meadow Club's invitation tournament.

Greenberg, once of Chicago but now from Los Angeles, reached the finals yesterday by vanquishing Sam Match of San Francisco, 6-3, 6-4, 10-8.

Benard Bartzan, San Angelo, Tex., and Gardner Larned, Chicago, defeated Greenberg and Seixas in a quarter-final doubles match, 6-2, 6-4, to continue a winning streak which flashed them into prominence Thursday when they conquered Jack Kramer and Ted Schroeder.

STEELERS WILL BEGIN TRAINING

Pittsburgh, Aug. 2 (AP)—The Pittsburgh Steelers of the National Football league shove off tomorrow for their new training site at Cambridge Springs, Pa.

The Steelers buckle down to intensive practice sessions Monday minus the services of Bill Dudley, ace halfback. It is the second year they are headed by Coach Jock Sutherland, former University of Pittsburgh mentor.

Dudley, now on his honeymoon after being married last Tuesday, has indicated he won't play pro football this season. However, there have been recurrent reports he would sign with the Detroit Lions and the Steelers have given him the "go ahead" signal. They say they are willing to trade Dudley for as yet unnamed players but the tentative deal remains on whether Dudley holds fast to his off-announced plans to quit the play-for-pay game.

This will be the first time the Steelers have trained at Cambridge Springs, a favorite watering spa of the east in the last century. They'll make their headquarters at Alliance college. Their first practice game is scheduled in Erie on August 22 when they'll play a night game against the Bethlehem (Pa.) Bulldogs.

The Steeler squad was swelled to 56 last night with the signing of Guard John Perko and End Tony Bova. Perko will be playing his eighth season with the Steelers and Bova his sixth.

Training headquarters already have been established with Dr. Raymond Sweeney, the team trainer, in charge.

ALL STARS MEET STATE HIGHWAY MONDAY NIGHT

The largest crowd of the season is expected to turn out Monday evening for the first of a three-game series between the All Stars of the Community Softball league and the league-leading and undefeated State Highway congregation.

Monday's game will start at 6:30 o'clock. The series will be staged on the high school field with the second game listed for Wednesday evening and the third, if necessary, for Thursday. All games will be nine innings.

A large number of tickets has been disposed of to date. Proceeds will be put into a fund to be used for injured players.

The All-Stars will be composed of players from the seven other teams in the league and will be managed by Johnny Knox.

Against this array Manager Charley Lightner will use his classy outfit composed of Reds Stambaugh, Jim Donaldson, Eugene Utech, Phil Everhart, Abe Hankey, Bob Kitzmiller, Jimmy Spahr, Glenn Hankey, George Fair and Bobby March.

All league games scheduled for next week have been postponed.

Eastern League

(By The Associated Press)

The Eastern league's trailing Binghamton triplets posted a double win over the second-place Albany Senators today and pinned the laurels on pitchers Pete Kunis and Johnny Moore.

Kunis took the mound in the tenth inning of the nightcap last night at Binghamton to suppress the Senators, with the bases loaded. In the last half, he doubled and reached home on a wild throw to give the seventh-place triplets a 7-6 margin. Johnny Moore hurled a five-hit, 4-1 opener for his second seasonal victory, both over the Senators. A four-game series thus was divided evenly.

Utica overwhelmed Hartford, 11 to 7, Scranton defeated Elmira, 5 to 3, and Williamsport nosed out Wilkes-Barre, 3 to 2.

At Williamsport, the Tigers, behind Art McConnell for the second time, swept a four-game series with the Barons. The Barons combined two singles and a double for a run in the first inning. After that, McConnell, who was credited with the opening victory last Monday, permitted only two hits.

The Scranton Miners rallied in the eighth and ninth frames for their five runs at Elmira to capture a series, 3 to 1. Ernie Bickhaus, who held them to two hits until the eighth, was relieved by Eddie Cole, but Cole allowed the winning run.

Right Fielder Rickey Ashburn contributed a double and three singles toward the league-leading Utica Blue Sox' third consecutive victory over the sixth-place Chiefs. Both teams tallied four runs in the first inning but five hits in the third put the Sox in front for good.

Trenton Defeats Lancaster In 12th

The Trenton Giants were riding high today after giving a clear demonstration of why they are in the thick of the fight for the Interstate league lead.

Coming from behind last night at Lancaster, the Giants unleashed their heavy artillery in the late innings, sent the game into overtime and finally blasted the Red Roses to a 6 to 4 defeat in 12 innings. The Giants' win put them three and a half games behind the front-running Allentown Cardinals.

Meanwhile, the Cardinals dropped a 7 to 5 decision to the Wilmington Blue Rocks at Allentown, the Har-

Pennsylvanians Win Tarpon Prizes

St. Petersburg, Pa., Aug. 2 (AP)—Two Pennsylvania women were among winners in the annual Sarasota Tarpon Tourney.

Mrs. George E. Cowden, of Warren, Pa., took top honors in the women's division with a 125½ pound catch, tournament officials announced yesterday.

Mrs. Jean Shof, of Kirklyn, Pa., won the medium tackle group with a 110-pounder.

George E. Cowden, of Warren, Pa., husband of the women's division winner, was second in the men's division with a 130-pound catch. The winner, Otto Scheder, of Milwaukee, landed a 131½-pound silver king three days after the tourney opened on May 15.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

New York, Aug. 2 (AP)—About a year ago boxing men were bemoaning the fact that the huge Army and Navy boxing programs during the war hadn't produced a single first class fighter. . . . Two of the best prospects to show around here lately, Bernie Reynolds and Laverne Roach, stepped right out of the armed forces into professional ranks. Both won nice victories on the Lesnevich-Mauriello card Wednesday and look as if they're going places.

Manager Joe Vella found Reynolds punching a bag at Camp Stewart, Ga., and tossed him into camp bouts. Bernie, weighing less than 160, has been belting pretty good 200-pounders around, but that doesn't surprise Vella. . . . "He always was better against the big guys," says Joe. "When we fought the Parris Island Marines I had to use him in two bouts. He lost to a middleweight but knocked out a 210-pounder." . . . Roach was a member of Jake Wade's Charlotte, N. C. Golden Gloves team before the war, but it was the experience he got as a Marine at Cherry Point that convinced him he'd be a successful pro middleweight."

New York, Aug. 2 (AP)—The best rookie first baseman in the Yankee organization, says one observer who should know something about both the Yanks and Rookies, is New York's Joe Collins. That's an interesting point because George McQuinn isn't likely to have another season like this one with the Yanks. . . . Collins was optioned out to Birmingham and hit .366. Since rejoining the Bears he's been batting above .350.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE

Two-sentence boxing lesson from Barney Ross during the Lesnevich-Mauriello fuss. "When you got a guy hurt, you got to hit him in the body. That's when you got to bring his hands down." . . . Further comment from Fight Manager Chris Dundee: "Mauriello has no condition. He tries to do in five weeks what he should take the whole year to do."

ONE-MINUTE SPORTS PAGE

The U. of Texas has just completed plans for a 66,000 capacity stadium that will be second only to the Sugar Bowl in the south. It's supposed to be ready for the 1948 football season. . . . So many Latin-American sightseers have visited the Hialeah racetrack this summer that signs now are posted in Spanish and English. . . . Ernie Case, who was a "B" student at UCLA and an "A" quarterback, has enrolled at Southern California as a law student. . . . Texas golfers hear that Earl Stewart, known as a "professional amateur" because he beats the others so regularly, will really turn pro before the spring of 1948. . . . The Cubs claim that Boston's Johnny Sain is the toughest pitcher in the National league at Wrigley field because of the way he brings his overhand curve out of that white shirt back-ground.

ALL-STAR

Admiral Jonas Ingram, all-American football conference commissioner, has just been awarded another star to wear with the ones on his shoulders and the "fruit salad" on his chest. . . . He's been made a deputy sheriff in San Diego county, California. . . . Well, isn't he supposed to be "copper" for the whole league?

BULLETS WILL CONDUCT CAMP AT LAUREL LAKE

Approximately 40 Gettysburg college football candidates have been invited to attend the pre-season training camp which will be held at the Carlisle YMCA camp at Laurel Lake.

The camp will open on Monday, September 8, and will continue until Wednesday morning, September 17.

Pre-season drills were held at the camp at Laurel Lake before the war. Last year all drills were conducted on the campus.

Prof. C. E. Bilheimer, athletic director at the college, has announced that season tickets for the four home games are now on sale at the college athletic office and at Britcher and Bender's drug store. The tickets, which entitle holders to reserved seats for each game, will cost $6, a saving of $1 for the four games.

Home games are listed with Western Maryland, Lehigh, Bucknell and St. Lawrence.

Applications for season tickets will close on September 1.

The schedule for the coming season follows:
October 4, Western Maryland, home; 11, Lafayette, away; 18, Lehigh, home; 25, Delaware, away; November 1, Bucknell, home; 8, Muhlenberg, away; 15, St. Lawrence, home; 27, Albright, away.

LIGHTWEIGHTS END TRAINING; BOTH CONFIDENT

Philadelphia, Aug. 2 (AP)—Ike Williams and Bob Montgomery wind up their workouts today—each confident that he'll emerge the winner in the fistic settlement of the disputed lightweight title Monday night at Municipal stadium here.

In addition to finishing up his preparation for the 15-round battle, Ike plans to celebrate his 24th birthday later today. However, he says, he won't mind if his birthday present is delayed until Monday—as long as it's the lightweight crown.

Moreover, the National Boxing association's lightweight champ says he isn't going to stuff himself with any of that birthday cake that his co-manager, Frankie Palumbo, is sending up to Ike's training camp at Summit, N. J.

"Come into the ring hungry and you'll make a better fight," remarked the Trenton, N. J., negro. When you're hungry, you're mean. You fight your best without seeming to have to call upon your reserve strength."

Bobcat Favored

But Williams may have to call on that reserve Monday because Montgomery, New York-Pennsylvania recognized lightweight king, is definitely in tip-top shape.

And hungry or not, Montgomery has demonstrated during his training at Pleasantville, N. J., that he's a vicious fighter. Few of his sparring mates can stick with him.

Even visitors such as Wesley Mouzon, who once flattened Montgomery, favor the Bobcat over Ike.

Mouzon, who fought a draw with Williams in 1945, mowed down Montgomery in a non-title match last summer at Shibe park but the Bobcat came back and knocked out Mouzon in the eighth round of a title affair last Nov. 26.

"After seeing them both," remarked Mouzon, a Philadelphia contemporary of Montgomery, "I think Bob will win. He's very strong. He's a good, smart fighter."

TED WILLIAMS, Red Sox—Hit by pitched ball, drew 114th walk. Struck out and fled out. Made good recovery on Eddie Lake's smash in third inning, preventing Lake from advancing with accurate throw.

JOE DIMAGGIO, Yankees—Flied to Joe Gordon in short right field; bounced out to Ken Keltner, driving in Tommy Henrich; popped to Lou Boudreau and lined to Dale Mitchell in deep left.

ENOS SLAUGHTER, Cardinals—Grounded out, hit into double play, sacrificed and walked.

WALKER COOPER, Giants—Fanned in second inning, struck out with bases loaded, lined to short-stop and beat out, an infield single.

LOU BOUDREAU, Indians—Flied to Johnny Lindell, popped to George Stinewiss, flied to Henrich, flied to Dimaggio and drew an intentional walk.

JACKIE ROBINSON, Dodgers—Grounded out in first inning; singled to left in fourth, later scoring on Hank Borowy's error; singled to right in fifth, scoring on Pee Wee Reese's double, lined into double play and struck out.

Wed by Clerk Here: Raymond Floyd Buice, Brownsville, Pa., and Olive Mae Howard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Howard, Gettysburg, were united in marriage Tuesday afternoon in the office of Clerk of the Courts Roy D. Renner, in the court house here.

James Hafer Gets Best Camper Award: James Hafer, of Troop 80, of the Christ Lutheran church, was presented with a buckskin badge as "best camper" last Friday at Boy Scout Camp Ganoga. Each week one scout is selected for that honor.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS
THE JOY OF SIMPLE THINGS

We don't need heavy equipment to get through life in satisfactory fashion. Only the simplest equipment is essential. Surround a child with many toys, some of them not cheap, but the child knows nothing of values, and so usually picks out as its favorite the simplest and cheapest of all the toys.

Men take pride in their success and in their accumulation of wealth, but even then their wants are few and simple. Even then their greatest joy is in the simple things that they once knew long before their greater affluence. Having much does not assure happiness.

Character and appreciation comprise the finest kind of wealth—wealth that nothing of a material nature can afford to buy. The greatest characters are those who live by the simplest of standards and take immense satisfaction in the enjoyment of simple things. All too late many come to a realization of this fact.

What a cluttered life one must lead whose days are given over to business and more business, clubs, quick trips by the speediest route, committee meetings (most of them just talk), conventions (usually just a good time spree), and other interests which only consume time, wear one out, and leave so little in return for all the energy expended. Certainly mere money cannot compensate for the loss of so much of the joy that results from simple things.

Here at Weskewaak there are no street cars, no auto horns are screaming, no traffic—except bird and squirrel traffic—no crowds, excepting crowded pines, hemlocks, white birches, and maples, and they need no attention. You tread through their domain on mossy paths that feel like padded velvet.

There are simple things on this little island—a domestic flower bed, mostly of colorful pansies. A selected group of tools, for it is pleasant business to fix things yourself here, and to gain the thrill of creating. An ax, saws, a rake, shovels—but no lawn mower! What little grass we have about the lodge we cut with a sickle, or hand shears.

Oh, yes, and we have a telephone. You wind a handle and call a number. If you don't get it, you then hang up. It's as simple as that! There are simpler things here to get joy out of, however, than the telephone—sunsets, moonlights, starry heavens, cool winds, and a log fire!

THE COW

The placid cow has time to spare,
But scarce a fancy in her head.
Of joy or grief—if she's aware—
No word of it she's ever said.

Instinctively her young she feeds.
Unmoved she sees it join the herd;
And once supplied her body's needs,
She settles down without a word.

No thought has she of good or ill
Beyond the common wish to live.
She knows no craft requiring skill
Or any cause to which to give.

No hope, no God to whom to pray!
No love, no tried and trusting friend!
Never one word of cheer to say:
Placid and care-free to the end.

Fighting Motor Fever

Keeping the engine cool, calm and collected during summer motoring calls for recognition of the fact that the older the car the hotter the cooling system is likely to operate. There are various ways of holding temperature down, once this fact is taken seriously. For instance, the speed average should be lowered. Another step is to have carbon removed more often. The usual angle is that as the car grows older it isn't necessary to be so fussy with it whereas its very age causes an increase in the rate of carbon accumulation. Check ignition timing, too. Keep tire pressures up, and keep the wheel bearings greased. Go faster approaching hills; ease off near the top. That takes advantage of momentum.

Can't Violate Nature

Half the battle against accidents would be won if drivers would realize that when they go wrong it is usually because they are trying to ignore some natural law. This is clearly demonstrated in the case of stopping. At 40 miles per hour most operators like to believe that they have but to allow twice the distance needed for a stop from a speed of 20. But the law doesn't read that way. The increase in stopping distance is governed by geometrical progression. That makes a world of difference.

Many drivers get into trouble just ignoring nature's law that two bodies cannot occupy the same space at the same time. Statistics seem to indicate that more than half the so-called accidents are the result of drivers trying to violate natural laws.

Low Speed for Testing

Now that it is possible to take demonstrations in several makes of cars the time is ripe for remembering that the real test of a motor isn't its top speed but its performance at low speed in high gear. One of the tricks that will be coming back into vogue again is to drive about a half mile as slowly as the car will go in high, and then step on the accelerator. If the engine doesn't pick up smoothly, without hesitations or roughness, it is the sort you should consider seriously.

Riding qualities are also best tested in the lower speeds. If you attempt to race over a rough stretch the jolting you get will more likely be attributed to speed rather than to spring suspension and control.

Incidentally, your motor versatility test tells a deeper story if you try it over a rough rather than a smooth stretch of road.

Mechanic Joe Speaking

"Smooth roads have been praised for many of their blessings but have you ever stopped to realize what they do by way of helping you save engine oil? Rough roads cause so much weaving of the chassis that the crankcase gasket is apt to become loosened, not to mention jarring of a lot of other connections in the oiling system. But the greatest waste comes from uneven feeding of gas.

When the car is agitated there is greater difficulty holding your foot on the accelerator so as to keep the throttle at a constant setting. Also you may be tempted to speed up and slow down. All this wastes oil by causing a vacuum within the cylinders each time you suddenly close the throttle. Oil is then sucked up and burned off."

Good Teamwork This

The other day when I was trying to make up my mind whether to overtake another car its driver gave me a new tip by slowing down just enough to urge me to overtake him at once. It proved to be a good piece of teamwork and I am going to use the idea myself from here on. Of course he could have waved for me to overtake him, but that would have been something of a command. His course was less trouble, more cooperative and meant that in passing I did not have to speed up as much, yet the passing could be done quickly.

Shift Just Stiffer

I've talked so much about the transmission's detents (shift locks) it would be sheer repetition to go into an explanation of them again, but I think you should know that if one or two of these have been replaced to overcome slipping out of gear you may find that occasionally you have not completed the shift into high, although you may think you have. This is explained by the added resistance of the new detent or new spring within it. Until it gets worn in a little you may find it necessary to give an extra tug at the shift lever. If resistance is

WORKERS SPURN 12-CENT BOOST FOR SHIPYARDS

New York, Aug. 2 (AP)—Striking employees of Bethlehem shipyards, idle since June 26, stood firm Friday on their demand for a 13-cent hourly increase after rejecting a company offer of 12 cents which, the strikers' spokesmen said, "would have been nullified by contract changes upon which it insisted."

Of approximately 70,000 shipyard workers on strike, about half are employees of nine Bethlehem yards, located in Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey and Maryland. Todd shipyards recently settled a brief strike on the basis of a 12-cent hourly increase.

Eugene G. Grace, chairman of Bethlehem Steel corporation, announced Thursday at a news conference that his company had offered a 12-cent increase to the striking locals of the Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of America (CIO).

Thursday night, John Green, union president, issued from his Camden office a statement saying that the Bethlehem offer was contingent upon union acceptance of "an amended form of the company's 19-point counter proposals of June 10, which would have taken away from the union members all the gains they had made through many years of negotiation and compromise with the company."

Demand 13 Cents
U. S. conciliators, who had asked both sides to submit minimum demands at Thursday's conciliation conference, said the union had returned to its original demand for a 13-cent increase at the end of the session.

The rejected company offer, a conciliation official said, involved contract changes regarding seniority and incentives. He said further conferences would not be resumed until "early next week."

The present wage scale was said by a Bethlehem spokesman to run from 96 cents to $1.33 an hour.

Green, in his statement, said the company offer was not a "bona fide offer of a 12-cent an hour raise."

The 12-cent offer of the company, Green said, "would not be extended to those of the company's employees on incentive and piece work, except as a guarantee of $1.50 an hour earnings to such categories. Since a large percentage of the Bethlehem shipyard workers are paid on incentive and piecework contracts, this group, estimated to amount to as much as half of the company's employees, would not actually obtain a wage increase."

Says Yards Handicapped
Grace, at the news conference, said that high wage costs were handicapping the shipyards both in competing with foreign shipbuilders and in seeking "work outside of the shipbuilding industry" to keep busy "at least a nucleus of the forces which did such a splendid job during the war."

The Bethlehem chairman said the shipyards paid 22 per cent higher wages than firms with which it competes for such miscellaneous business.

While the union contends that the strike involves nine Bethlehem yards, company officials say that only eight yards on the Atlantic coast were working at the time the strike was called and that the ninth yard, at San Pedro, Calif., had no work and was in a maintenance status.

Ten yards in addition to the Bethlehem yards are affected, and a Bethlehem settlement might lead the way to a general settlement, union officials said.

New Oxford

New Oxford—The Boy Scout troop of New Chester has announced that the festival which it conducted recently for the benefit of the troop was very successful.

Harold Sanders, formerly of here, a teacher at the East Berlin high school and his wife, who teaches in the graded department of the East Berlin borough school, have been pursuing special courses in Baltimore which will continue for several more weeks before the reopening of school.

Miss Lillian Mickley, daughter of Mrs. Ruth Haar Mickley of the Pine Run section near here, was hostess at a dinner recently at her home when the guest of honor was E. E. Jacobs, Spring Grove, who observed his birthday. Mr. Jacobs is an uncle of Mrs. Mickley.

The Women's Missionary society of St. Paul's Reformed church combined during the week with other women of the congregation as well as women of the Abbottstown Reformed church which is served by the same pastor, the Rev. Archie C. Rohrbach, to conduct a meeting at the church.

Mrs. William R. Snyder is reported to be quite ill at her home.

The Luther League of the Lutheran church of Abbottstown held a recent swimming party at Dicks Dam near here.

York Springs

York Springs — The local high school band has accepted an engagement to furnish music for the festival planned by the Women's Guild of Mt. Olivet Reformed church, between here and East Berlin, to take place at the church grounds Saturday.

East Berlin

East Berlin—The local high school band has been engaged to play this evening at the annual Paradise Picnic to take place in Farmers' Grove, south of town, for the benefit of Paradise Catholic church.

Several local girls signed up for work at the Melrose Cannery Co., Melrose, Md., when a representative of the cannery was sent here to recruit workers. If sufficient persons from the East Berlin area and surrounding communities decide to work at the cannery, free transportation to and from work, by bus, will be provided.

Mrs. Coit E. Eisenhart, who has been confined to her room by serious illness, is able to be about.

Administrators of the estate of Mrs. Lucinda Firestone Baker, who died some weeks ago, are preparing to conduct public sale of her house and household goods before the end of August.

Roxie, 9-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude A. Messinger, is reported slightly improved after several weeks' confinement to bed with rheumatic fever. She is expected to be bedfast until the early fall.

Jacob Hoffman has returned to his York home after a visit to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond L. Hoffman, Sr., where he recuperated after recent hospitalization. He is reported steadily improving.

At the double dwelling on King Street, occupied by Mr. and Mrs. John Phillips and the Coit E. Eisenhart family, the porch has been removed and cement steps substituted.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Sanders, teachers at the borough school, who have been spending a part of the summer pursuing special courses at Baltimore, spent the week-end at their home.

John McCormick has returned to Paradise Rectory after hospital treatment last week at York.

Mrs. Bessie Joseph has returned from a visit to the Thomasville home of a niece, Mrs. Earl Mickley. While there, she was present at a party tendered Mr. Mickley on his 47th birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. James H. Mulligan, Jr., who have been housekeeping in New Cumberland since June when they were married, were entertained recently by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph L. King.

Doris Jacobs represented the Bermudian Brethren Sunday school during the past week at Camp Swatara in the Harrisburg section.

Miss Helen E. Powers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Powers, R. 2, and a graduate of the local high school in the class of 1946, was among those competing last week for the title of "Miss Adams County" at the beauty and talent pageant presented at the William Penn senior high school building, York, by York Post No. 2, AMVETS, day evening, August 30.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Wackerman, Gridley, Calif., have been visiting Mrs. Wackerman's mother, Mrs. Minnie Pentz, as well as other relatives in the East Berlin and Littlestown sections. The Wackermans have been proprietors of a grocery business in the west for years.

The Rev. Orville V. Warner, local Methodist minister, was among those attending the National Methodist Rural Life conference at Lincoln, Neb., this week. The Rev. Mr. Warner recently spent some time in special study at Western Maryland college, Westminster.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Schaible, who have been residing in Baltimore county, Md., will shortly observe the fifth anniversary of their marriage. Mrs. Schaible is the former Miss Wilma Potts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Potts, this section.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester B. Worley have returned from a trip to Boston, Mass., where they attended a nurserymen's convention.

Mrs. Roy Fagan and daughters, Barbara and Nancy, have returned to Harrisburg after a visit of several days with Mrs. Fagan's mother, Mrs. Rosa Bream. Anna Mae Fagan has been spending a large portion of the summer with her grandmother, Mrs. Bream.

Miss Virginia Guise was among young women competing last week in the beauty and talent contest sponsored by the York Post No. 2, AMVETS, at the William Penn senior high school building, York. Miss Guise, who has been on vacation at her family's home here, has a clerical position in Harrisburg.

Mrs. John Luther Trimmer and family are preparing to leave shortly to make their home in the vicinity of Fort Jackson, S. C., where Mr. Trimmer is stationed with the military police.

LABOR BACKING STORCH AGAINST LICHTENWALTER

Harrisburg, Aug. 2 (AP)—Philip Storch, Allentown newspaperman and Democratic candidate for congress in a special election Sept. 9, has received "the full and complete support" of the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor—AFL.

James L. McDevitt, Federation president, who announced the state AFL-body was backing Storch over house speaker Franklin H. Lichtenwalter, of Center Valley, Republican nominee for the unexpired term of the late Charles L. Gerlach, said in a statement:

"With respect to the Allentown Congressional situation, I have been advised that the Central Labor union there, which is our parent organization in that congressional district, has unanimously endorsed Mr. Storch for the congressional seat, in view of which, he, Mr. Storch, will have the full and complete support of the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor in that congressional election."

McDevitt previously said that the executive council at meeting early in September would consider the Lehigh-Bucks congressional fight as well as local elections in other sections of the state.

Interest Revived
In announcing the backing of Storch, who is President of the Lehigh Valley Newspaper Guild-CIO and already has the backing of CIO unions McDevitt said:

"We are following the traditional policy of our federation with respect to candidates for public office in supporting the position taken by the central labor unions of the district from which the candidate comes."

McDevitt also said previously local AFL unions are increasingly active in local election campaigns and attributed the revival to passage of the Taft-Hartley Labor Law by congress. The state AFL body vigorously opposed enactment of that measure as well as new state labor laws outlawing strikes by public employees, jobless benefits to strikers and establishing compulsory arbitration of labor disputes involving essential utilities.

China To Re-open Trade With Japan
Nanking, Aug. 2 (AP)—China has decided to reopen limited trade with Japan with the proviso that nothing be exported that is needed at home.

The Ministry of Economic Affairs announced that China would export tea, tung oil and bristles to Japan and would buy in exchange machinery, communications materials and railroad sleepers.

HOSPITALIZE "BLUE BABY"
Uniontown, Pa., Aug. 2 (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Michael Onifer of Leckrone, said they will leave in a few days for Johns Hopkins hospital, Baltimore, where their nine-year-old son, Thomas, will undergo treatment and an operation for a heart condition which made him a "blue baby."

LIGHTNING HITS POWDER

PUC Authorizes New Bridge At $473,885

Harrisburg, Aug. 2 (AP)—Proposed by the state Highways Department as part of a $2,000,000 road improvement on state route one north of Harrisburg, construction of a new $473,885 bridge over the Pennsylvania Railroad's Williamsport division near Clark's Ferry was authorized by the Public Utility Commission.

The bridge will be built as part of the improvement of a two-mile stretch of the road which also calls for realignment of more than a mile of the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks along the Susquehanna river and the closing of a subway under the railroad at that point.

Explaining the approaches to the present subway curve sharply, the commission said "the record shows that many accidents have occurred at this crossing."

It added that the highways department plan calls for construction of route one with two 24-foot lanes of concrete separated by a four-foot wide divider strip to the Clark's Ferry bridge with relocation of the railroad tracks for a distance of 6,400 feet.

Make Record Trip Up Mount McKinley

Fairbanks, Alaska, Aug. 2 (AP)—Three rugged ex-G.I. University of Alaska students claimed Friday the swiftest ascent of towering Mount McKinley on record and the first scaling of the highest North American peak for pure adventure since 1932.

The three who made a speedy 17-day trek from Wonder Lake camp to the 29,250-foot peak and return were Gordon Herried, 22, Santa Maria, Calif., Frank Mills, 20, Cincinnati, and Henry Daub, 23, Boston.

They were resting at the camp in McKinley National park after their grueling trip to the mountain top, approximately 42 miles away.

The party made the climb without receiving any outside support from the air or ground.

Riding With Russell

If you are bored with the squawk from the present horns on your car you might try the new warning signal that roars like a bull. It carries a sliding control for varied tone. Just ran into another one of those little spring loaded gadgets to take the rattle out of worn shift levers. But the oddest thing of the week is a new "roll holder." It serves to prevent your car from rolling forward or backward when waiting on a hill. It works through the hydraulic braking system.

Tough On The Tube
Every time I see one of those pictures of milady inflating a flat tire with one of the combination fire extinguishers and pumps, or with a tube running from the spare tire, I feel like getting up on the house-top and shouting a warning. These are convenient ways of getting air for an emergency, but no air should be blown into a flat tire until the wheel is jacked up. Unless the air can go completely around the tube there will be stretching and trouble. Take the weight off the tube, then inflate.

What's Your Trouble?
Q. Can you give me any explanation as to why the engine of my car gives better oil mileage on the road than around town? I had always assumed the situation would be the reverse, H. L. N.

A. Evidently your city driving is more erratic. Too many sudden closings of the throttle will cause oil to be sucked up past the pistons. On the road you evidently keep a steady pace and perhaps coast some.

Q. There is a peculiar knock in the engine of my car in the speed range between 40 and 50. Never hear it at any other speed, nor when the engine is idling. Wm. L. L.

A. I suggest that you have the cylinders checked for compression. You'll probably find that one of them is too low. This will cause unbalance at certain speeds, and enough vibration to cause the knocking you note. The engine probably needs new rings, a valve job and a tune-up. Apparently it is making quite an effort in this higher speed range.

Q. I have spent quite a lot of money trying to find out why the oil pressure is low on my car. A new pump has failed to make any difference. Have even replaced the gauge. Can you help? F. R. McB.

A. Why not check the relief valve plunger? It may be sticky. Or its spring may be broken.

Q. Although I bought it three years ago I did not install a rebuilt engine in my car until this spring. Since then the cooling system has been overheating. It seems to be getting steadily worse, and nothing I have done to the car makes any difference. Did you ever hear of anything like this? H. H. W.

A. Yes. In a similar situation it was found that oil leaked past the rear main bearing into the clutch, causing slippage. The oil retainer dried out during the long period of storage.

Mr. Russell will answer questions regarding the safe care and operation of your car. Just address him at 254 Fern Street, Hartford, Connecticut, and enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope for a personal reply. There is no charge.

At 50 m.p.h. a person sees 14 per cent less than he does driving at 45 m.p.h.

SENATOR SEEKS RESIGNATION OF WARREN MICKLE

Philadelphia, Aug. 2 (AP)—Declaring that the Democratic party must rid itself of what he termed "dead wood," State Senator H. Jerome Jaspas (D-Phila.) has called upon J. Warren Mickle to resign as the party's state chairman.

Jaspas, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Philadelphia county commissioner, said yesterday the Democratic state chairman should resign immediately because of what the Philadelphia said was Mickle's "lack of ability, courage and vision."

As a result of Mickle's leadership, Jaspas said, Democratic legislators were "left floundering" during the 1947 session of the legislature.

Jaspas characterized Mickle as a chairman "in name only" who, in addition to being "a weak sister," consistently acts as a "stooge" for Mayor David L. Lawrence, of Pittsburgh, the party's former head.

Lawrence, Jaspas added, "cares not what happens to the party outside of his own bailiwick, as long as he is able to hold onto his municipal post."

"In fact, Lawrence would rather ruin the party and control the wreck, than save it (the party) by turning it over to competent hands," Mickle and Lawrence declined last night to comment on Jaspas's charges.

Seeking Penman For Royal License

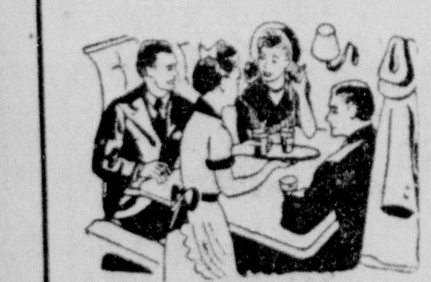

London, Aug. 2 (AP)—The Archbishop of Canterbury was looking today for someone who can write fancily enough to inscribe Princess Elizabeth's marriage license.

Royal marriage licenses are usually inscribed by hand with a quill pen in old English block lettering, but the man who had penned them for years is now dead and experts in the art of penmanship are hard to find.

The Archbishop's office said it had not been decided whether the royal license would be on vellum or parchment. A spokesman said it might even be illuminated.

An announcement from Buckingham palace last night said the wedding ceremony would be held November 20 in Westminster Abbey.

Letters Thank

the seventh and eighth grades of the New Oxford public schools taught by Mrs. Marian Gotwalt.

Miss De Bievre's letter, written June 15, stated: "Dear little friends, I was very pleased to receive a parcel from you. I was very curious about its contents: a red belt and purse, a brick of palmolive soap, a little blue towel, hairpins, bionettes, colours, a tooth brush and paste, also needles and cotton thread. Really it enjoyed me very much and I exhibited the contents to my parents, brothers and sisters. I join a little photograph of them."

Sends Belgian Stamps

"I am 10 years old and am a pupil of the 5th grade preparatory class to the Middlebare school at Blankenberge. My father translates my letter and showed me your town in a large atlas. I thank you very much and I am greeting you all very very kindly. I join some stamps, perhaps it may enjoy somebody to have stamps from Belgium."

A similar letter was received for the youngsters taught by Maud M. Pensyl, Biglerville, in Pitzer's school, Cumberland township.

Students at Pitzer's school who took part in filling the gift box included Catherine Rohrbach, Anna Rita Heiges, Carolyn Shriver, Susan Beach, Sandra Redding, Elizabeth Leatherman, Norma Oates, Robert Rohrbach, Ronald Heiges, Rodney Wolf, Paul Staley, Harry, Donald and Harold Leatherman.

The letter the Pitzer's school youngsters received from Yolanda Birlouet of Blankenberge, Belgium, stated in part: "Dear all of you! What an event at school when headmaster went about with gift boxes. All boys and girls members who could produce their Red Cross cards to be treated, for the number of boxes here could not cover all applicants-members. It was like wild-fire; you know how children are! And how sensitive to a kindness! How happy I am your names were included so I can send you a personal thankful message. What a lesson for all of us children to realize what a power unity in a common ideal of peaceful goodwill may become as opposed to the fearful scourge of malevolent dictatorship. We may talk about it, as we are always in the front row and underwent a frightful enemy occupation. Daddie had fled before the previous one, to turn a soldier 18 months later. Yes, long live the International Red Cross led by enlightened and God-fearing people, long live the Youth Red Cross."

All Gifts Appreciated

"Which of your lovely gifts am I to praise most? One and all are welcome, doubly so as they come from so far away friends! They all deserve a glad thank you. Sweet smelling soap and handy comb will remind me of kind hearts in the morning; foaming tooth-paste and fine brush will perfume my breath and brighten up my happy morning smile and kiss to daddy and mummy! The lovely gloves will warm my heart and hands for you! Pencils and rubber come in usefully every moment at home and at school; Crayola colours are so velvety to use, a pure delight, colored pencils are fine quality too and booklet rejoices little sister. What lovely copy books and tablet to jot notes on. As for the dainty 'knobs' and delightful 'Pochette' they took away my breath—I am so idle! The table game—ball and ten—afforded us a fine game like skittles. Last but not least, what to say about the glorious 'mousse' ball? There's no saying how welcome that was! ... I live at the sea-side on the North Sea, a stroke 45 miles long between France and Holland, intensely fortified by Germans. We expected for four years to be blotted out at the Allies'."

STREAMLINING BILL IS ONLY HALF SUCCESS

BY DOUGLAS B. CORNELL (For James Marlow)

Washington, Aug. 2 (AP)—Rep. Monroney (D-Okla.), author of the legislative reorganization law, estimated Friday that it has been about 50 per cent effective in "streamlining" Congress.

The session just ended was the first to operate under the act.

Termining the law about half successful and half "flop," Monroney added to a reporter:

"Now we've got to carry it out fully or abandon and repeal it."

The Oklahoman said the most conspicuous effort to use it was in setting a legislative budget.

"That was completely a flop," he continued. "Not the idea, but the way it was used."

The law says congress must work out its own program for appropriating here! I am 12 and in sixth preparatory, prior to entering high school at Blackenberge. We are all so grateful our dear school mistress, Miss Rau, is a Red Cross devotee. That is why she was banned from here by Jerry and was an exile from home."

All Articles Useful

Another letter was received for the students of Melhenny's school in Freedom township taught by Dorothy E. Sprigg, Gettysburg R. 2.

The letter was from Bibiana Vanden Bosch of Blankenberge, Belgium who wrote to the Melhenny students, contained in part: "Everything I found in it (the Junior Red Cross package) is very useful to me. I was surprised to find so many things in it. I was especially pleased with the pencils and the ball is for my little sister. My brother is pleased with the marbles. When I wear these nice things I will think of the ocean. It was very kind of you to think of us. All the school children were very pleased and went home ever so happy to show their presents to mother. Many friendly greetings from Belgium."

Violations Cited

Monroney classed as an outright disregard of the law a decision of the House appropriations committee against public hearings on money bills. These hearings were held behind closed doors as in the past and the testimony made public when each appropriation bill was handed to the House.

The law also says that every House member "shall" be elected to one committee.

But Monroney noted that four tions and spending, in the light of prospective government income and presidential recommendations.

This is to be done by a special committee made up of Senators and Representatives from the appropriating and taxing committees of both branches.

Failed To Agree

What happened last session was that congress got a $37,500,000 budget from President Truman and never agreed on one of its own. The House voted to trim $6,000,000 from the presidential total, the Senate $4,500,000,000. They never compromised. And Republicans and Democrats are still arguing about just how much the budget was cut.

To make the plan work, Monroney said, congress should have experts working with government agencies during the summer and fall as they work out their budgets for the coming year.

Then, when the House appropriations committee is ready to start operating, and the legislative budget committee meets, the "experts" could have ready-made plans for large, medium or small cuts.

But Monroney said he sees little chance this will be done.

Despite all the talk of too many subcommittees, Monroney said, the biggest success of the reorganization law has been in the direction of committee consolidation.

Compared with 1945, he said, the number of all congressional committees—joint, regular, special and subcommittees—is 32 lower. And he predicted that many of the subcommittees set up this year will wither away as it is found they have little to do.

"We couldn't get rid of all the extraneous growth with one cut of the scythe," he said. "But we did remove a lot of overlapping and duplication."

Members—Speakers Martin (R-Mass.), Republican Leader Halleck (Ind.), Democratic Leader Rayburn (Texas) and Rep. Marcantonio (Ala.)—were not elected to membership on any committee. Monroney says the three leaders probably should have been exempted in the law.

As for Marcantonio, the only member of a minor party in Congress, both Republicans and Democrats declined responsibility for giving him a committee assignment. Each side said the other should do it. Neither did.

Brothers Picket Father's Business

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 2 (AP)—Truck Drivers James and Robert Gray, members of the AFL-Teamsters union, don't have far to go to take up their picketing duties in the 49-day old household movers' strike.

The Gray brothers are picketing their father who—with two other sons, William and Carl—runs a moving business here.

"Two of the boys go to the carriers' meetings," says Father Gray, "and two attend union meetings. Yet we manage to keep it level and in good humor."

WILL DEPORT GERMAN "WAC"

Philadelphia, Aug. 2 (AP)—A 24-year-old blonde who served with the German army Women's Auxiliary corps, is awaiting deportation to Germany while a ship's cook who aided her in entering this country is being detained in Moyamensing prison charged with aiding the illegal entry of an alien into this country.

The ship's cook and baker, Walter Leroy Strange, 36, of Portland, Ore., testified before Magistrate E. David Keiser, sitting as a U. S. Commissioner, that he loved Francesca Vanden Brach, who succeeded in following him to Philadelphia.

Strange, who was held yesterday in default of $500 bail, testified that he helped the girl, whom immigration officials said deserted her post with the German army in Paris,

"because it was our only chance to get married."

Ill In Cabin

The German girl, disguised in seaman's garb, was smuggled aboard the U. S. freighter, Richard Moczowski at LeHavre, France, and made the ocean crossing hidden in a cabin. Immigration officials arrested the couple early yesterday at a hotel here less than eight hours after they debarked.

J. Taylor Buckley, counsel for Strange, said Strange would waive an indictment and stand trial next Wednesday.

Dear Susan Brown

Chapter 30

"But," Susan reminded him, "you said you were junking my column. There'll be nothing for me to do. I wouldn't know the first thing about cooking or homemaking — being a nitwit, of course."

"Nobody said you were a nitwit," he groaned.

Susan looked at him now and her eyes flashed fire. "Why, Steve Gellis, you said it yourself just a minute ago!"

"I didn't mean you," He mopped his face again. "I meant a lot of other people. As a matter of fact, I'm very fond of you."

"We were talking about jobs," she reminded him coldly. Even if he offered her one under the new set-up he was planning, it would only be because he was sorry for her. She would have to refuse it. After all, a girl should have some pride. Steve Gellis was not in her class. John Bates had said so. She had to remember that.

Nor did she intend to let Steve cloud the issue by pretending an affection which he did not feel. The girls in his set knew all the answers to that sort of thing. But she didn't play the game that way. She played for keeps. It was just unfortunate that she'd allowed herself to fall in love with the wrong man.

"Damn it, yes. We were talking about jobs," said Steve. "I could start a column on good manners, since you're so dead set on working. We could use one."

"You certainly could." Now that she had herself under control, she could be just as sarcastic as he was, she decided. "And as for my being so dead set on a job—well, some girls have to work in order to live. But of course you wouldn't know about that — any more than I'd know about running a column on good manners."

To Susan's great annoyance Steve nodded his head. "I could show you," he said. "It's only a matter of questions and answers. Matter of fact, I'll dictate your first column. You can type, can't you?"

His eyes twinkled as he said it, and Susan began to realize that he was not as serious as she'd first thought. That was the way with men like Steve Gellis. They were always stringing a girl along, hoping to get a rise out of her. Well, she would play it his way, for a few minutes at least. Then she would go upstairs, put on her hat and walk out of his life. This time, it would be forever.

"I can try, Mr. Gellis," she said, mimicking the tone of one of the apprentice stenographers in the magazine office. "I'm not very good yet, but I'll do my best."

"Nobody could ask more, Miss Brown."

He was smiling as he went into the den, and returned a moment later with a portable typewriter which he placed on a small table in front of Susan. "Ready, Miss Brown?" he asked. And when Susan nodded, "This is a real problem, you know."

He cleared his throat and began, his eyes still twinkling: "Dear Miss Brown: I am a young man of 28, fairly presentable, but not too adept when it comes to romance. I have been so occupied with business that I've had little time to develop a satisfactory technique. I've met a girl with whom I've fallen deeply in love and would like to marry, but I seem to be getting nowhere in a hurry."

Susan's hands dropped from the typewriter keys. "That's not a good-manners problem. It's a love problem, and a very silly one at that. Why, you sound just like one of the daisy-pickers, Steve Gellis."

"Sure it's a love problem," answered Steve, grinning. "But I didn't realize I was making such a mess of it."

"Well, you are. If you want to marry this girl, why don't you ask her? What's stopping you?"

"She is. She does it all the time. In fact, I think it's deliberate. Every time I get around to the point of telling her I love her, either she ducks, changes the subject, or jumps down my throat about something. Didn't I just say I was getting nowhere fast?"

Susan frowned and pulled the sheet of paper out of the typewriter. "She sounds terrible. If she's that kind of a girl, you're well off without her. Of course, it's none of my business, but you seemed to be getting somewhere pretty fast the other night at Club Pelican. You know very well that you have only to mention marriage to Linda Murchison, and you'll be at the altar so soon it'll make your head swim."

She wadded the sheet of paper into a ball and tossed it into an ashtray. "Anyhow, this is no good-manners problem. Even if I were interested in doing your column, which I'm not, I wouldn't use tripe like this. I can think up much better problems myself."

Steve assumed a dejected pose, but it was not very convincing. "Now you see. There she goes again — changing the subject," jumping down my throat. Didn't I just tell you? In a minute, she'll duck — at least that's what she thinks."

With that, he reached out and drew Susan into his arms, held her close to him. She struggled to release herself, but only for a moment. He was kissing her hair, her throat, her lips — and she knew very well that she wanted it that way.

"Why do you say things like that, Susie?" he asked, when finally he could speak. "You know Linda means nothing to me—nothing at all. You're the only girl that's ever meant anything. You must know how much I love you. Why, Susie, I—I—why, you've got me stammering just like one of your love-lovers! But don't you know I adore you?"

It was a full moment before she could answer, for his lips were pressed hard against hers.

"I do know—now," she confessed. "Maybe I knew it before. But I wanted to hear you say it the right way."

TROUBLE SHOOTER

BY CAMERON DOCKERY

Chapter 1

He was lost.

With a snort of self-disgust Doug Andrews sat down on a fallen log and fumbled around in his leather wind-breaker for his pipe. After sucking on it noisily until the dottle caught, he leaned back and surveyed the area near him. He was in a silent pocket of the forest. In-thick moss and maiden-hair fern sprouted from the rotting hemlock on which he sat. Overhead Washington cedar, fir and pine met in a dense canopy which almost excluded sunlight and sound. The ground was spongy with generations of droppings from these same trees.

Well, he wasn't completely lost. He could retrace his steps back to the skid road or even if he kept on he'd eventually come upon some trail, but his actions could hardly be considered auspicious for a man who was playing his first role as trouble shooter in a timber outfit. Learning against a broken branch he shut his eyes and reviewed the events that had brought him here. A few lances of sunlight escaping the massed greenery above, speared down lending a gleaming coppery patina to Andrew's brown hair and widening the white scar high on his right cheek bone. Even in repose his face bore an energetic determined look.

Only the day before he had arrived in Seattle after being released from the Army on the east coast. It had seemed strange to come back to Washington from Japan via India, Suez and the Atlantic, but it had given him leisure in which to think things over and by the time he'd reached the northwest he'd known he wanted to get back into forestry of some sort.

He'd looked up the address of J. W. Slocum in the Seattle directory and gone straight to his office. To his surprise the lumberman had seen him at once. Slocum was a big bluff man in his fifties, the scars of his timber-bucking days still on him. His eyes were shrewd and bluer than Doug's own.

"Sit down," he ordered crisply. "What can I do for you?"

Doug decided to be equally businesslike. "Give me a job," he said. "Slocum's ruddy cheeks crinkled. 'How'd you hear about me?'"

"Your son—we served together through Guadalcanal to the Philippines, until—" He paused to give the awkward lump in his throat a chance to dissolve; even now after two years he found it difficult to speak of his lost friend. "He spoke of you and your lumber business so much."

"So you're the boy Glen mentioned..." Slocum stared out the window unseeing at the busy turbulent mixture of sound and movement that was the Seattle waterfront. When he faced Doug again some of the color had left his face.

"Tell me something about yourself, Andrews."

"There isn't much to tell, sir. During my high school summers I worked in various lumber camps, then I had a year and four months of forestry at the University before Pearl Harbor set things off. I'm twenty-four and single."

"What branch of the Army were you in?"

"Communications and radar at first, later Military Intelligence."

Slocum studied him without speaking. His stubby fingers beating a nervous tattoo on the window ledge cut across the belligerent below of a locomotive inching its way along Railroad Avenue below.

"Look here, Andrews, why don't you finish up at the University?"

Doug shook his head. "My last years in the Intelligence in Japan was mostly desk work. I want to get away from that sort of thing for awhile."

"I can understand that... the trouble is, I'm not in the lumber business any more."

A wave of disappointment swept over Doug. "But I thought..."

"I know you did. But I sold out during the war. I'm only in the shipping end of it now."

"Guess I'm just wasting your time then, sir."

"Maybe, maybe not. Worked in Military Intelligence, eh?"

Doug nodded, wondering what Slocum was driving at.

The older man thrust his jaw forward, his eyes met Doug's steadily. "I have a proposition for you, see how you like it—There's a medium-sized logging outfit, the Larson Lumber Co., operating on the Olympic Peninsula. Grif Larson was my best friend—we climbed the timber trail together. He died three years ago and his daughter and her grandfather have been trying to make a go of it."

"They're not succeeding?"

"Not very well, and it seems to me it's more than just a streak of bad luck. They're too proud to accept help from me even though I have a small interest in the company. How'd you like to hire out there as a logger and do a little snooping for me on the side?"

All of which was why Doug Andrews was now sitting on a fallen log listening to the high distant keening of a hound. After a second he knocked out his pipe, picked up his gear and started in the direction of the sound. Ten minutes later he paused on the edge of a stump-studded clearing, resting beside a tall young cedar.

As he moved forward again something whined past his ear and clipped a piece of bark from the tree. It had the unmistakable hum of a bullet! Swearing expertly he dropped to the ground.

Chapter 2

Doug crouched beside the cedar until he heard a voice across the clearing and the answering bark of a hunting dog, then he stood up slowly, prepared to dodge behind the tree trunk if necessary.

A liver-spotted hound was sprinting toward him, avoiding the blackened shells of burnt-out stumps, and behind him strode a girl, rifle carefully balanced in the crook of her arm. As she neared Doug her full mouth curved in a half-apologetic smile.

"Sorry I frightened you."

Doug's face was still red from anger and exertion but his sense of humor came to his rescue. "Do you always go around taking pot shots at strangers?" he said.

"Only in season. I thought you were a cougar."

"A cougar?"

"Yes. There was one in this same tree yesterday but I didn't have my gun with me then. He's been killing our chickens and I want to get him before he does any more damage," she explained, then added "You should wear a red hat."

"Then what would you mistake me for?" he teased.

Her amber-colored eyes examined him sharply then suddenly were filled with golden sparks of humor. "Guess I deserved that," she laughed. "But you are trespassing you know."

Doug studied her for a moment admiring the loose waves of tawny hair that framed her face and the even row of teeth made whiter by the smooth out-of-doors tan that would never fade completely even in winter. Her cheeks were scarlet above a green and beige plaid shirt complimenting tan corduroy slacks.

"Not trespassing," he corrected hastily, "—applying for a job."

"Do you really mean that?"

"I was never more serious in my life."

"But—but I don't understand. If you wanted a job why didn't you apply at the mill office in the village?"

"I always like to get in on the ground floor. Besides," he lied "there wasn't anyone in the mill office."

The bus had dropped him off at the small waterfront village of Queets Inlet and the sign announcing The Larson Lumber Co. and a smaller one saying simply office had been the first things to meet his exploring eyes. But he had purposely avoided them.

Queets Inlet had been the usual small combination lumber and fishing port—a general store, mill and warehouse, a long fishing dock and shed and a cluster of small frame houses huddled together on a curve of the Sound, dwarfed beneath a background of towering evergreens. It was only when Doug had walked the length of the town and rounded a curve on the highway that he had come upon another sign announcing the more prepossessing sheds and warehouses of the White Rapids Lumber Co. Slocum had said nothing about another logging outfit and Doug was wondering if sheer competition could be the answer to the Larson's troubles but that seemed too simple a solution, one that Slocum undoubtedly would have known about and evidently put aside as improbable.

A doubting frown was puckering the girl's forehead as she stared at him now.

"It's strange no one was at the desk. I'm usually there—being book-keeper and so on is my job—but Ed took my place today."

"Ed?"

"My half brother. He and Grandfather manage the logging end of our business."

A half brother, eh? Funny Slocum

Emmitsburg

Emmitsburg—The Rev. and Mrs. Bower entertained recently at a picnic supper at Caledonia Park, the Rev. and Mrs. W. Owens Stone and family, of Barrington, R. I., and Dr. and Mrs. George Riggs.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dunamore, of Baltimore, were recent visitors of Dr. and Mrs. George Riggs.

Prof. and Mrs. B. J. Eckenrode and son, Joseph, left Friday evening for a week's visit with relatives in Norfolk, Va.

Miss Ann Eckenrode, who spent several weeks visiting with her father, Prof. B. J. Eckenrode, and Mrs. Eckenrode, returned to New Orleans on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gullo and son, of Oneida, N. Y., are spending several weeks visiting with Mrs. Gullo's mother, Mrs. Estelle Topper, West Main street.

Henry Warthen, of Baltimore, has been spending his vacation at the home of Mrs. Nellie Hobbs.

Mrs. L. Dow Strader and son, Jud, of Clarksville, Md., spent several days last week with Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Sanders and daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Spielman and Mrs. John Spielman, of Washington, D. C.; Miss Betty Eyer, of York, and George Eyer, of Union bridge, spent Thursday with Mrs. Emma Ohler and Mrs. Minnie Frock.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Blair, of Thurmont, announce the birth of a nine and a half-pound daughter, Bonnie Elizabeth, on July 17 at the Frederick Memorial hospital. Mr. Blair is the former Margaret Nul who made her home with her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Moser, near Emmitsburg.

Mrs. Charles Sites and several children, of Pittsburgh, are visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gelwick.

Miss Shirley Topper has returned home after spending a week with her grandmother, Mrs. William Topper.

hadn't mentioned him. Doug decided to let it pass for the time being. "I'm Doug Andrews," he said. "You must be Elsa Larson."

"That's right. How did you hear about our outfit?"

"I heard about almost nothing else for three years... Glen Slocum and I went through the war together until he was killed."

A swift pained shadow seemed to cover her features; Doug bit his lips. "I see it hurts you to speak of him as much as it does me."

Neither of them spoke for a minute then Elsa looked up at him uncertainly. "I can't hire you, Grandfather does that, but we need loggers and I'm sure he'll have no objections."

As if to corroborate her a hoarse shout came from the other side of the clearing. Elsa called "Over here, Grandfather!" then turned back to Doug. "Don't let him scare you, his bark is worse than his bite."

He was glad of her reassurance for there was a formidable quality about the man coming toward them. In spite of his seventy-five years Sven Larson was as straight as a Sitka spruce and moved with a vigor that would have been enviable in a man one half his age. Frosty green eyes peered from beneath bushy blond brows; his mouth was hard and unsmiling. Doug had seen the same expression graven on the faces of Viking images.

"Who is this man Elsa? Larson said shortly."

"Doug Andrews, Grandfather—a friend of Glen Slocum's. He wants to join our outfit."

Old Larson did not unbend. "He can if he has the qualifications."

"I think I have sir," Doug told of his past experience.

When he finished, Larson nodded curtly and put his hand on Elsa's shoulder. "Sounds good, Andrews, if you can live up to it you'll keep your job. The road to the bunkhouse is over there. Tell Hardin I hired you, he's the logging boss. Come Elsa, I must talk to you alone."

As she turned away Elsa shot Doug an encouraging smile over her shoulder but he was too stunned by old Sven Larson's brusqueness to respond. He watched the stalwart figure with the smaller equally straight one beside it until they disappeared into the trees on the opposite side of the clearing.

Believe Seven Planes Head For Foreign Land

Washington, Aug. 2 (AP) — Government officials said today a widespread search is on for seven fast former army combat planes reported to be headed for a "foreign country" after an unauthorized takeoff from a Florida field.

Edson J. Shamhart, deputy commissioner of the Bureau of Customs, confirmed reports from Florida that an "alert" was ordered to prevent the planes from leaving this country, if they have not done so already.

They are two fast-flying P-38s, and five P-51s. War department officials said some of these planes, used by American flyers in the war, have been sold as surplus and may be in the hands of civilians.

"There are plenty of young fellows in this country who know how to fly these ships," one officer said.

Officials here would neither confirm nor deny that the planes have actually taken to the air.
